DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-7,9,13,14,16,17,19,20,22 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Andrews et al (6317098).

Regarding Claims 1-7,9,13,14,16,17,19,20,22 and 23, Andrews et al show, for example in Fig. 1, a MIMO (2:2) communications system/mobile communications network and method therefor, with an antenna array comprising a plurality of orthogonally polarized transmit antenna elements 11,12 providing beams 13,14 and a plurality of orthogonally polarized receive antenna elements, within line-of-sight thereof, where the former elements are arranged to provide polarization diversity and the elements are arranged to avoid spatial diversity (because the elements are spaced less than a wavelength of the operation frequency by virtue of the elements 11,12 sharing a common phase center, collocated from a single antenna aperture), arranged as claimed. Further regarding Claim 16, the digital network (e.g., CDMA) provides the space-time coded signals claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Art Unit: 2821

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 8,10-12,15,18 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Andrews et al in view of Runyon et al (6067053).

Andrews et al were discussed above relative the respective claims. Regarding Claims 8,18 and 21, Andrews et al shows a MIMO system. Runyon et al teach a full duplex system where TX and RX are simultaneously employed. However, receiving data is considered a non-MIMO system. Runyon et al suggests that the antenna system may be used in cellular and PCS frequency bands. It would have been obvious to the skilled artisan to employ any modulation scheme and band of service in the antenna arrangements of polarization diversity systems, such as those as Andrews et al and Runyon et al.

Regarding Claims 10-12 and 15, Runyon et al show a BFN 16 coupling the signals to the polarization diversity antenna system 12a,b, presented in columns, and producing the polarizations recited in Claims 11 and a two branch input as in Claim 12. It would have been obvious to the skilled artisan to employ the antenna system in Andrews et al for providing close-spaced diversity beams.
